

Arrowhead Systems Pledges Support to African Wildlife Foundation

Sales of Busse depalletizers to benefit Campaign to Save Africa's Elephants

OSHKOSH, Wis. (October 18, 2016) – Arrowhead Systems, Inc., an industry leader in conveyor, packaging machinery, and line productivity solutions, is pleased to support to the African Wildlife Foundation's (AWF) Campaign to Save Africa's Elephants.

Arrowhead Systems has joined AWF's efforts to combat Africa's poaching epidemic by donating $500 for each Busse depalletizer sold in 2017. This year-long contribution is in addition to an initial $5,000 donation previously made by Arrowhead Systems.

"At Arrowhead Systems we honor our corporate responsibility to care for the environment and endangered species by supporting programs like AWF's Campaign to Save Africa's Elephants," said Arrowhead Systems CEO Tom Young. "We are committed to the conservation of these magnificent animals and hope that our efforts will not only aid AWF, but encourage others to join this worthy cause."

Elephants are an iconic member of Africa's wildlife and crucial to the health of the continent's forests and savannas. Unfortunately, poaching of elephants for their ivory continues to pose an incredible threat to their survival. Research shows that at current poaching rates, elephant populations may not survive 10 years in the wild.

"It was a wonderful surprise to learn that a corporate entity like Arrowhead Systems wanted to partner with our organization to create awareness about the horrific poaching crisis that is killing an average of 30,000 African elephants a year," said Craig R. Sholley, Senior Vice President, AWF. "Arrowhead Systems recognizes what the loss of such an iconic mammal means and wants to do its part to ensure that there's a brighter future for elephants."
